Fall Enrollment Trends Training

When recruiting students, it is important to analyze trends in student enrollment data in order to make strategic decisions. Recruiters can use this illustration of data to inform future decisions and strategies to attract students to the education profession.

An effective Fall Enrollment Trends Training is:

- Informative and thorough
- Adaptable to audiences with different levels of experience
- Practical

An effective Fall Enrollment Trends Training includes:

- Action steps for participants to complete
- Opportunities for audience participation
- Time for participants to reflect
- Data from your college

Tips for an Effective Training

- Read the entire training thoroughly
- Rehearse the training aloud and time your rehearsal
- Print out supplementary materials ahead of time
- Ensure necessary presentation technology is functioning properly
- Arrange the room to suit the needs of your training
- Clearly display and distribute materials for the training

This resource is part of the Sanford Inspire Program Recruitment Toolkit, a model for teacher preparation programs to engage and attract future educators. Discover more resources at SanfordInspireProgram.org